

Park Community School – Ethos and Values

Aims

We strive for success for all in our learning community through a continuous focus on Attainment, Resilience and Autonomy. Preparing students to have long successful lives by helping them to be ready for their next steps in life having found something that they love to do whilst in our school.

We will be 'much more than just a school' in order to give students the best education and preparation for life that we can. Employing and training staff who believe that education should kindle fires in students' minds.

Overarching Values

We create an environment in which learning can flourish and where each individual feels confident to strive for achievement, personal fulfilment and a sense of self-worth. Promoting: high expectations and stimulating high challenge, low anxiety learning experiences.

We celebrate achievement in many forms, nurturing the ability to make good choices, creating an embedded culture of respect which leads to a well-disciplined, well-ordered, happy school community.

Achievement in academic disciplines in the core curriculum is important for future opportunities

High standards are expected with each individual pushing themselves to do their best. Personal growth and development is sought and valued by all to achieve high standards.

Learning about different cultures and the cultural heritage of individuals and the worth of their experience builds equality and helps everyone to belong.

We recognise that with rights come responsibilities, these are both towards oneself and our others in our community. In this way self-esteem, self-confidence, self-discipline, enterprise and trust are grown.

Everyone is entitled to acquire the skills, knowledge and understanding that equip them for a useful and fulfilling life.

Education is a partnership with parents, carers and other stakeholders in the wider community

Learning to care for and respect our environment is fundamental to a future world in which we can all live and flourish.

Developing new ways and improving current approaches to teaching enriches all aspects of the curriculum at Park.

Sharing our insights with others in this locality, nationally and internationally is important for our growth.
